

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method is for evaluating the quality of electronically stored, particularly medical, knowledge data. The knowledge data are stored in a database; quality data correlated with the knowledge data are stored in the database, and; when a user accesses the knowledge data, the quality data are automatically provided to the user.